Seneca County Ohio Naturalization Records 1834 - 1930 was compiled by Nancy Bostic Hagenmaier, member of the Seneca County Genealogical Society. She used the original records housed at the Seneca County Probate Court. After the information was entered by Nancy into the computer, Carol Anne Holscher, Beverly and Jerry Wheatley then proofread the material. The Wheatleys also supervised the publication process.

Names were copied as accurately as possible from the original records. Names may have been misspelled in the original but spelling was not changed for this publication. It is up to the researcher to check alternate spellings for the names they are looking for.

Seneca County Naturalization records were kept at the Common Pleas Court from 1834 to 1930 and at the Probate Court from the 1850's to 1930. In May of 1930, all naturalizations were referred to the U.S. District Court at Toledo. This book includes 5134 names and all the important data from the early records. It is always good to see the original to interpret the handwriting yourself, but there will not be much additional information up to 1914.

For the earliest years, 1834 to 1852, the only records that can be found are entries in the Common Pleas Journals, which consist of lists of names of men who were declared citizens in court, with no further information. These lists were recorded on cards (CD) kept at the Probate Court. Starting in 1852 bound records exist with printed forms in them. Unfortunately the information in these records are limited in detail to the name of the person, the country of origin, age, date of declaration of intention, date of naturalization and/or date final papers filed and witnesses. They do not usually state town of origin, parent's names, spouse, children, ship, etc. After 1914, additional information is recorded. This book does not contain that information and the original records must be consulted.

Cost bills are filed as loose papers. They show fees people paid for the court costs.

THE ORIGINALS OF THE NATURALIZATION RECORDS ARE HOUSED AT THE SENECA COUNTY PROBATE COURT, 108 JEFFERSON St., TIFFIN, OH 44883. THEY HAVE ALL BEEN MICROFILMED AND ARE ALSO AVAILABLE AT THE TIFFIN SENECA PUBLIC LIBRARY, 77 JEFFERSON ST., TIFFIN, OH 44883. THE L.D.S. CHURCH (MORMONS) ALSO HAVE COPIES OF THE MICROFILM AVAILABLE FOR INTERLIBRARY LOAN THROUGH THEIR FAMILY HISTORY CENTERS:

GENERAL NOTES ON NATURALIZATION

(from Nebraska State Historical Society Reference Leaflet on Naturalizations www.nebraskahistory.org)

The first federal law regarding naturalization was passed in 1790, establishing the basic procedure for naturalization throughout the 19th century. The courts were designated as the agency for implementing this law. Each immigrant desiring to begin the process of naturalization was required to appear in a court of record to complete a Declaration of Intention, sometimes called first papers. After a mandatory residence, generally a period of five years, he was again required to present himself in court, with witnesses, to fill out a petition for citizenship, take an oath of allegiance, and prove he had met the residency requirement. These documents, together with the certificate of naturalization, are known as the final papers. It was not necessary that he complete both steps in the same court. Many persons probably filled out the first papers in a court near where they lived after arrival in the country, and then filed the final papers in some other court. Wherever the immigrant went he had his choice of courts, and generally he went to the nearest one, whether it was federal, state or local in jurisdiction.

Wives and children of naturalized males generally became citizens automatically. There were provisions, however, for later naturalization of persons who arrived in this country while still minors. Those who served in the United States military also could become citizens after honorable discharge without filing a Declaration of Intention in advance.

The administration of the naturalization laws was substantially altered by a federal statute effective September 27, 1906. This law created the Immigration and Naturalization Service within the Department of Commerce and Labor. This agency is now in the Department of Justice. Until 1906 federal laws did not designate specific courts to engage in naturalization. Many state and local courts naturalized for a time and then discontinued doing so because they wanted to reduce their work-loads. Others continued to naturalize and still do. Any court having a common law jurisdiction and possessing a clerk and a seal could naturalize foreigners provided they met the federal requirements for citizenship. The courts were of all types, ranging from a U.S. District Court or a Territorial Court to a local police court.

Under the law of 1906 all courts were required to make various reports to the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and they were subject to federal regulations concerning fees to be charged. Some courts disliked the bureaucracy involved and ceased naturalization proceedings. From the effective date of that law, however, naturalization work became obligatory on the part of the federal courts.

The courts have generally retained the documents relating to naturalization. Occasionally local courts have transferred their records to a state repository or perhaps to U.S. court.

The federal law of 1906 required that copies of naturalization records be forwarded by the courts to the Immigration and Naturalization Service. A request for the search of naturalization records after September 27, 1906, may be made to the Service on special forms provided by that agency.

More notes on Naturalizations:

(from http://www.phila.gov/phils/ - Genealogical Resources of the Philadelphia City Archives)

According to the federal naturalization laws, any court of record within the United States had the power to conduct naturalization proceedings. These proceedings usually involved two steps. A man, (or, very rarely, a woman,) visited the court to swear or affirm his intention to renounce his allegiance to his native country and monarch. This was known as the Declaration of Intention. After a waiting period of three years, later reduced to two years, he could enter any court in the country, produce a copy of the declaration, prove that he had resided in the United States for a period of not less than five years, have a person vouch for his character, and present a petition for full citizenship. This paper is known as the Naturalization Petition. If he fulfilled all of these obligations, the court would issue a certificate of citizenship and would retain, as part of its records, the applicant's copy of the declaration and the petition for naturalization. The court would not retain a copy of the actual Certificate of Citizenship. This belonged to the newly enfranchised citizen.

Declarations of Intention: The first document of the citizenship/naturalization process is known as the Declaration of Intention.

Exceptions to Filing a Declaration : All persons who wanted to initiate naturalization proceedings in the 19th century had to file a declaration, with two major exceptions:

Minors: Those people who arrived in the United States under the age of 18 had only to wait the five-year residency requirement and achieve their majority before filing a petition to become a citizen. The law waived the necessity of minors having to file a declaration of intention. However, before 1850, both the Quarter Sessions Court and the Common Pleas Court would often have an applicant sign the declaration docket as well as a minor's petition in order to have some proof of the applicant's age and signature.

Military Service: Under an Act of 17 July 1862, persons serving in the United States armies (the Union forces during the Civil War), only had to present their honorable discharge and reside in the country for a period of only one year, not five, in order to file for naturalization. This law was intended only for army veterans - navy and marine veterans were not covered under this law, but under a similar law passed on 26 July 1894. However, the Philadelphia courts were apt to wink at this restriction and numerous veterans of the naval, marine and other services used their service discharges to become citizens under the 1862 law.

Unnaturalized Aliens : During the 19th century, the only reason for an alien to become a citizen was in order to achieve the right to vote. He (or she) did not need to become a citizen in order to buy or sell property, hold a job, get married, or to do anything of a personal or social nature. Many aliens lived most of their lives in this country and never began and/or completed the process of naturalization. This connection between naturalization and the franchise explains why the majority of naturalizations occur during Presidential-election years. During any year, the majority of petitions are filed in the weeks just before the primary or general election. It also explains why very few women bothered to become citizens on their own.
